

Shifting signals: Exploring geographic variation in echolocation clicks of Risso's dolphins in the California Current

Sarah Shiers, Dr. Anne Simonis

2024-10-27

For access to supplementary code and data related to this research, please visit the following GitHub repository: <https://github.com/SarahShiers/BIO-708>

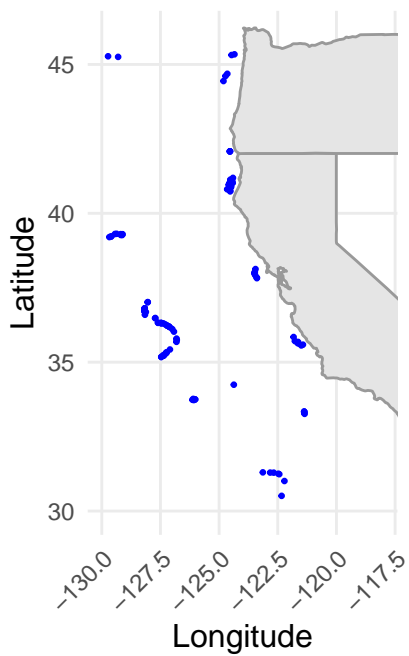

Figure 1: Geographic distribution of detections of Risso's dolphins in the California Current. Each point represents a detection, highlighting the spatial variability of detections across the surveyed area.

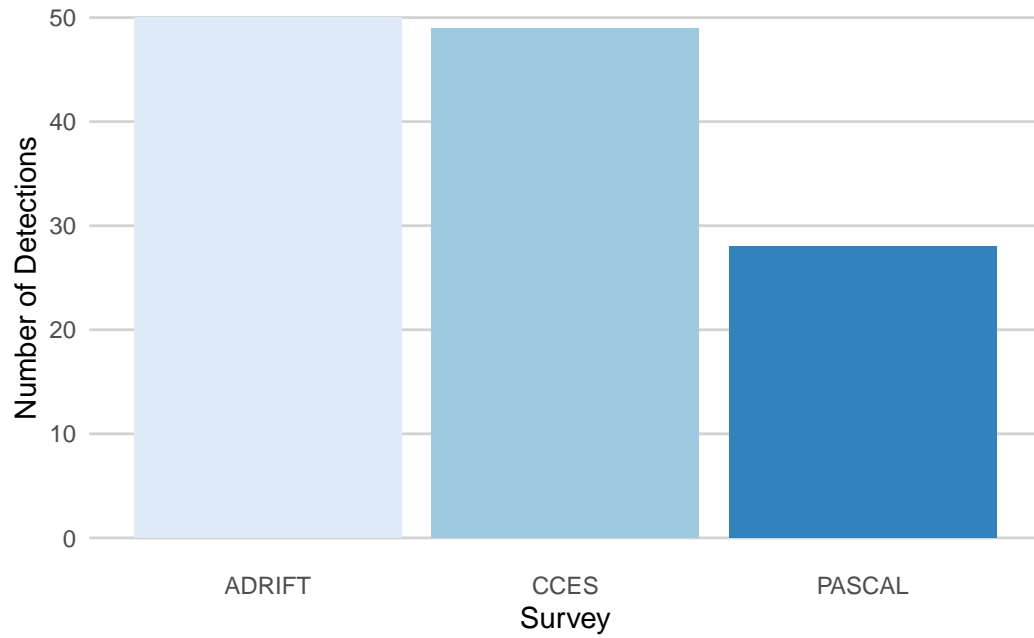

Figure 2: Number of Risso's dolphin detections by survey (ADRIFT, CCES, and PASCAL). Each bar represents the sum of detections from each survey, emphasizing variations in detection rates among the surveys.